U. S. WON'T ENTER COURT FOR MONTHS

Correspondence Between Countries Will Be Long-drawn Out
MAY REQUIRE YEAR
America May Be Forced to Change Reservations Permitting Entry

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926 By Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Although the United States senate voted to permit entry into the world court, it may be a year or longer before the American government is a member. The correspondence between the department of state and the various governments which are members of the court promises to be long-drawn out. The reservations talked on by the senate must meet with the approval of other governments or else they must indicate their passive acquiescence by making no comment.

Just what constitutes a reasonable time for other governments to say whether they accept the American reservations is difficult to estimate. In some instances governments have felt that a diplomatic note was still under consideration if it was acknowledged and an answer given within a year.

Certainly it seems probable now that when the congressional elections are held next autumn and the anti-court speakers are upbraiding the senate for its action, there will be considerable doubt where America will or will not have joined the court. Officials who are familiar with the time it takes to get action from 40 or more governments say the task could not be completed before next November.

FEAR LEAGUE ENTRY
The world court issue, however, as developed by Senator Borah and others, does not involve so much a criticism of the supposed ill-effects of American entry into the court as it does an argument against possible entry into the League of Nations. The Idaho senator has let it be known that he will not aid any Republican senators who voted for American adherence to the league and who are up for re-election next fall.

He does not say he will campaign against them but he will assist in some cases their opponents. Mr. Borah plans to speak in New Hampshire in behalf of Senator Moses, one of the irreconcilables. He has made speeches in Illinois where quite a world court agitation has been started in the hope of defeating Senator McKinley in the Republican primaries in which he will seek re-nomination.

MAY REVISE PARTS
Opponents of the court concede that the reservations may tie up the question of American entry to such an extent that revision of the reservation may yet have to be worked out and that the question may have to be brought up again if the foreign governments do not accept the changes as made. The administration is trying to smooth out the wrinkles quietly and without public discussion as the matter is complicated by the necessity of action by foreign offices and in some cases by parliaments. Some of the friends of the world court particularly the Democrats have been inclined to raise the League of Nations issue with a proposal for some form of associate membership in mind but the chances are against such a step getting very far at this time.

WATERWAY TO OCEAN IS DEPENDENT ON COOLIDGE

Superior—(AP)—The waterway to the ocean is up to Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg and until they take action nothing further can be done, said Congressman E. H. Peavey of the eleventh congressional district in a letter received by the Women's Progressive Association of Superior. "The Canadian parliament has said it was ready to negotiate a waterway treaty," says Peavey in his letter. "This power lies with the president who carries it out through the secretary of state. The newspapers have declared Coolidge, Kellogg and Hoover to be in favor of the waterway. "It is now up to them to prove it and I am not very hesitant in predicting that they will do just what they have done in the past in this respect—nothing."

CROOKS FLEE CHICAGO

GANGLAND IS QUIET AFTER POLICE RAIDS

Authorities Add 90 Suspects to 21 Held for Deportation Proceedings

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago's alien gangland, scene of 41 slayings, was described Thursday by the police as "a deserted village." There has been a general exodus of gunmen from their usual haunts since raids were started this week to pick up deportable foreigners who figure in gang and liquor feuds in the area. Though the raiders Wednesday night added 90 suspects to the 21 being held for deportation proceedings, officials said few of the aliens who are connected with alcoholic and killing operations have fallen into the net. Most of these have left or have taken to cover, they thought.

Once outside Chicago the gangsters must go to work to live, or return and risk capture, and special precautions will be taken to arrest them when they come back, police said. Assurance of ability to verify or disprove within two hours any claims of legal entry to this country made by the suspects, has been given by government immigration inspectors working with the police who planned to continue the raids and speed up the investigation of the status of the arrested.

QUIZ ALL SUSPECTS
Questioning of one suspect disclosed he had been in this country 19 years and that the only three English words he knew were "yes," "no," and "dollar."

Meanwhile the inquest into the death of Edward Baldelli, "the Eagle," whose bruised and pierced body was found on an ash heap in an alley early Wednesday was continued to March 6. Baldelli was the chauffeur of Orazio Tropea, "the Scorpion," killed a week ago and a friend of Vito Bancone, found shot to death on a suburban roadside Sunday.

Police activity and marksmanship Wednesday brought death to Charles Bunworth, paroled life term convict, fleeing in an automobile with other gunmen from Chicago. Less than seven months after his release, Bunworth killed Paul Honkvaar, Milwaukee bootlegger, and also was suspected in connection with the death of John Speciali, another Milwaukee run runner.

Chicago's police estimated Bunworth had a hand in a score of Chicago gang killings of the type which precipitated the present drive against deportable aliens.

STEEL CORPORATION 25 YEARS OLD TODAY

New York—(AP)—The United States Steel Corporation, the world's largest industrial enterprise was 25 years old Thursday. Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board, also completed Thursday a quarter century as chief executive officer of the two and a half billion dollar corporation. The executive offices, still plainly furnished with the fittings which have served for 25 years, witnessed no special birthday decorations.

Its business during its career has reached approximately $23,000,000, more than the national debt or the interstate commerce commission's tentative appraisal of the value of the railroads of the United States. Its total assets are approximately $2,500,000,000. It has paid out nearly six and a half billions in wages, with a current annual payroll of about $450,000,000 paid to nearly 250,000 men.

SPRING COMING AS AUTOISTS ABANDON LAKE

Superior—(AP)—A sure sign of spring—motorists deserting the ice highway of Superior Bay between Superior and Duluth for the interstate bridge, is reported. A week ago the ice in the bay was reported as 22 inches thick but several inches of water have scared scores of motorists off the ice to the bridge.

$100 In Prizes To Girls In Miss Venus Contest

Appleton's Venus is sought by the Appleton Post-Crescent and Fischer's Appleton theatre, and to find her, a beauty contest open to every girl and woman in Appleton, is being conducted. But not only a pretty face is a requisite of the most beautiful girl in Appleton to be announced during the week starting March 3, when the picture, "The American Venus" will be shown in Appleton with Miss Fay Lanphier, the present "Miss America" who won the national bathing beauties contest at Atlantic City, N. J., last year, in the leading role. Miss Lanphier was chosen as the best proportioned girl in the national contest, and the three Appleton judges will consider the figures of each contestant in relation to the standards of physical perfection established by her. The entrants will be judged by three experts in physical culture and beauty—Miss Dorothy Vestal, physical culture instructor at Appleton high school, Miss Blanche Burrow, physical culture instructor at Lawrence college, and Mrs. John Engel, Jr.

Miss Lanphier's closest rival for physical perfection probably will be sent to Atlantic City to compete in the national beauty show with beauties from all over America. All expenses for this trip would be paid by Fischer's Appleton theatre and the Appleton Post-Crescent. Beside this opportunity to go to the national show and the public recognition in Appleton, the most beautiful girl will receive a $50 gold piece, and the second prize will be an American Venus toilet set, valued at about $40. Each contestant will receive a pair of tickets to Fischer's Appleton theatre good for any night Miss Lanphier's picture is shown in Appleton.

The contest started on Feb. 24 and will close on March 5, prior to the announcement of the Appleton Venus at Miss Lanphier's picture. Send in your picture and measurements now, perhaps your measurements will be the closest to those of Miss Lanphier, and your face the loveliest among all the pictures sent to the judges. Instructions for entering the contest will be found on page 2.

CARRY FIGHT ON DRY LAW TO RADIO FANS

Three Members of Congress Will Discuss Act Over Air Tonight

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The whirlwind of oratory over prohibition continues in and out of congress with the wets and dries urging investigation of each other and a house committee planning to inquire into prohibition generally. As an added attraction, two attacks upon one defense of prohibition will go on the air Thursday for radio listeners, delivered by two senators and a representative, Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, and Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, will debate the question before the microphone at station WRC, with the New Jersey member speaking for the wets.

At another station, WMAL, Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democrat, Representative from New Jersey and a wet will discuss "prohibition as I see it." In the house wet and dry members are advocating respectively examination of the books and activities of the Anti-Saloon League and the Association against the Prohibition Amendment. William H. Stuyton, executive head of the association, has announced that the organization is willing to have its books looked into if the league is ready to reveal its records, and if the World League against Alcoholism, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Board of Temperance and others are willing to follow suit.

The house alcoholic liquor traffic committee having failed to receive from the rules committee a recommendation that it be given authority to inquire into prohibition, plans to make the investigation on its own account. The many sided controversy has an angle in the senate as well. The judiciary committee will confer on Monday with authors of various measures to modify the Volstead act as to the course to be followed in considering them. On the same day, the liquor traffic committee will meet to determine whether it will inquire into prohibition.

CRISES WON'T APPEAR AGAIN, BANKER HOLDS

Development of Federal Reserve Banking System Is One Prevention

Chicago—Belief that "however the economic winds of the future may veer and change, financial disasters of the past never will reappear, was expressed by E. H. Simmons, president of the New York stock exchange, in an address Thursday before the advertising council of Chicago. He recalled some of the business crises, which have occurred during the last 20 years and traced steps taken since in the direction of preventing recurrence.

Development of the "splendidly staunch and flexible federal reserve banking system" was held out as a conspicuous example. The after war collapse in 1920 for the first time in history of American finance was met resolutely, unitedly and intelligently by the American banks under the leadership of the federal reserve system, he said.

The New York exchange, he said, belongs to "this same group of institutions which are particularly useful to the entire American business community during periods of pressure and strain. "Based on its past record, I have no hesitation in saying that should American business be seriously menaced in the future, the stock exchange will be found fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Federal Reserve system and other constructive institutions of the land to restore, preserve and sustain business prosperity."

G. O. P. LINES UP TO DEFEAT NYE

Republicans and Democrats Join Same Ticket in North Dakota

Devils Lake, N. D.—(AP)—J. B. Hanna, of Fargo, Thursday was endorsed by the "independent" Republican convention as a candidate for the United States senate seat now held by Gerald P. Nye.

Devils Lake, N. D.—(AP)—Indorsement of a candidate to oppose Gerald P. Nye incumbent, for United States senate seat, was the important business of the day before the convention of state Republicans here Thursday.

The convention was composed of "real Republicans" with the aid of Democrats, nominated a state ticket composed of both Republicans and Democrats to oppose a candidate supported by the non-partisan league at the June primaries.

Six Republicans and five Democrats were chosen to appear on the Republican ballot at the coming election by the "independent Republican" faction.

The fusion of Democrats and Republicans at the independent voters association convention was for the purpose of naming a state ticket.

FIRE DAMAGES TWO STORES AT MADISON

Madison—(AP)—Stock and fixtures of two stores on State-st were destroyed by fire early Thursday with a loss estimated at $40,000. The blaze of undetermined origin started in the basement of Jensen's boot shop and threatened the entire block. The Jensen and Petrie Sporting goods stores sustained the heaviest damage, others being damaged by smoke and water.

NAVY PLANS BIG AIR SHIPS FOR DEFENSE

Dreadnaughts of Air, Bristling With Guns, Aim of House Committee

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Navy plans for great dreadnaughts of the air, bristling with guns to ward off airplane attacks underlie action of the house naval committee in providing for construction of 8,000,000 cubic foot rigid airships in the $100,000,000 naval expansion program recently reported to the house. A glimpse of the new monsters that have been designed and given the committee by Rear Admiral Wm. A. Moffet, navy air chief, shows seven of the new caliber machine guns, 18 20 calibre and one of the post-war 1-pounder automatics together with 9,700 rounds of ammunition for these weapons as a part of the regular military load of each ship.

"The guns are so situated that any enemy aircraft cannot approach from any direction or angle without permitting a concentration of fire," Admiral Moffet said. "The present contemplated but untried tactics of airplanes against human-inflated rigid airships for the former to get above the latter and drop bombs," Admiral Moffet explained. "A light plane moving at the rate of 150 miles an hour is not conducive to accurate bombing."

To illustrate the endurance of the big airships themselves against gunfire from attacking planes, Admiral Moffet said it would take hours of gas leakage from bullet holes in the cells of the ship to bring it down. "The ship's crew could stop these small leaks before there was any appreciable loss, he added. "It has been calculated," said the air chief "that the ships can be pierced with 200 holes, 20 of them one inch diameter in each of the ten gas cells, and lose but 25 per cent of the gas volume in five hours. But during that five hours such a ship could continue to carry out her mission."

ASK APPLETON POLICE TO SEEK BOLD GUNMAN

Appleton police department was notified by telephone from Milwaukee Wednesday night to watch for a man who held up six stores in the Cream City and then escaped in a stolen garage car. The call came at 9:30, a few minutes after the thief fled from the city.

The landit is described as 30 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs about 140 pounds. He wore a dark overcoat and a gray hat when last seen and carried two revolvers. The car which he included in his loot was 1925 Nash sedan, gray in color. It bore a 1925 garage license, 1644-C.

BORAH CONCLUDES HIS FIGHT AGAINST COURT

Chicago—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho Thursday concluded a strenuous three days of midwest campaigning against entry into the world court and departed for Washington.

The campaign into which he crowded five addresses at Chicago, Milwaukee, and Racine, Wis., he characterized as "very satisfactory." "It has," Senator Borah declared, "confirmed my belief that the people are against this thing."

The senator expressed his willingness to debate the court question at Milwaukee with Senator Jenroot of Wisconsin, who delivered a vigorous Washington birthday address in support of the nation's world court entry in his home state.

TWO CANARY BIRDS, BOTH NORMAL, ARE HATCHED FROM EGG

Dallas, Texas—(AP)—Two canary birds from one egg is the unusual trick of nature reported by Miss Addie L. Clark of Dallas. The mother bird, started with three eggs, Miss Clark said. The bird broke one and Miss Clark another, leaving the third egg, which produced two birdlings. The twins are normal and are among the best she has seen, Miss Clark said.

WHOLE STATE IS IN GRIP OF SNOW STORM

Wire and Rail Traffic Continues in Spite of Wind and Drifts

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The following storm warnings were issued by the weather bureau: Advisory 9:30 a. m.—storm warnings displayed on Atlantic coast, Cape Hatteras to East Port, Maine, and small craft warnings south of Hatteras to Jacksonville, Fla., severe storm central over southern Lake Michigan moving rapidly northeastward.

In spite of the heavy fall of snow and high wind which piled up drifts in many places, traffic in an out of Appleton has not been seriously hampered but it is feared that the storm continues until into the night a serious tie-up will result. Railroad trains and electric cars were running close to schedule all day Thursday, but were experiencing considerable difficulty. Bus service, except between Neenah and Kaukauna, was at a standstill, however. No attempt was made to get through from New London to Appleton, and the Manitowoc company found the going too hard. One bus came through early from Green Bay but service was abandoned after the initial run. Buses between Appleton and Neenah were operating close to schedule.

GENERAL IN STATE

Reports here Thursday indicated the storm was general throughout Wisconsin but very little damage had been caused. In most places it was merely a snow storm. There was a threat of sleet between 7 and 9 o'clock and for a time wire companies were inclined to view the storm with apprehension but up to noon no damage of consequence had been reported.

City crews were in readiness to open the streets if the snow was so deep that traffic was interfered with. During the storm the crews confined their efforts to keeping crosswalks and catchbasins open and street department officials were hopeful that warm weather would immediately follow the storm and melt the snow. If the weather becomes colder plows will be used and the streets opened, it was announced.

CALL FOR CABS

The Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. said it was not seriously hampered by the snow. City cars had difficulty negotiating their schedules in the morning but kept running and soon had the tracks open. Taxi companies were flooded with orders from all sections of the city when businessmen were unwilling to use their own cars to get to work. Railroad officials said trains were

COUNTESS MAY BE RETURNED TO ELLIS ISLAND

New York—(AP)—There is now a possibility that the countess of Cathcart will renew her acquaintance with Ellis Island before it is decided finally whether she will be given the freedom of the country or be sent back to England.

Her attorney, Arthur Garfield Hayes, has arranged with Federal Attorney Buckner to postpone the hearing on her writ of habeas corpus until Friday of next week.

As the countess' "ten days" shore leave expires at 11 o'clock next Wednesday night, she faces return to the jurisdiction of the immigration authorities then. Decision to postpone the hearing came Wednesday after the department of labor refused to grant a rehearing of her case.

SENATE GIVES ACT APPROVAL BY 61-10 VOTE

Reduction Goes Almost $40,000,000 Beyond Limit Set by Mellon

IS PASSED SPEEDILY Will Receive Approximately 2,300,000 of 7,000,000 Taxpayers

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Although the new tax bill somewhat exceeds the reduction in revenue which the treasury believed safe, Secretary Mellon said Thursday it was generally satisfactory to the administration. As the bill now stands, the secretary said, the government should have little serious difficulty in meeting its financial needs. He explained, however, that any appropriations by congress not now contemplated, would create a deficit for the treasury. Treasury believes the retroactive features of the estate tax will not cause embarrassment to the treasury. The 1927 fiscal year surplus will be small, if there is any, in the opinion of the treasury head, but he suggested that the revenue reduction will have little effect on the current fiscal year. Such surplus as is available for the current year is being applied to reduction of the public debt and that policy will continue to the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Washington—(AP)—Enactment into law of the revenue bill proposing tax reduction of $38,000,000 this year awaited Thursday only the signature of President Coolidge, who was expected to approve the measure within a short time. Senate approval late Wednesday by a vote of 61 to 10 of the compromise reached in the conference with the house completed the work of congress on its first and probably most important piece of legislation this session.

The total amount of reduction goes almost $40,000,000 beyond the outside limit which Secretary Mellon had indicated the condition of the treasury would permit, but favorable action by the president is believed assured on the promise of administration leaders in congress to forestall some of the pending bills calling for additional expenditures. The widespread slashes in taxes would become effective in most instances immediately upon enactment of the measure and income tax payers would have their assessments cut by more than two hundred million with the reduced rates effective on first payments for this year, which are due March 15.

More than 2,300,000 of the approximately 7,000,000 federal taxpayers will be relieved of all taxation through the proposed increases in personal exemptions from $1,000 to $1,500, for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married persons. Hastening to complete the bill in order to permit the reductions to be effective with the first payments, congress sidetracked much other legislation and perfected the measure in almost record breaking time, less than three months after the opening of this session.

The demand for haste was speeded by leaders of both parties in the house and senate and resulted in a compromise in both branches between the parties of the major provisions of the bill. As a result the principal fight developed over the inheritance tax which the senate voted to repeal but which was kept in the bill by the house, which modified the rates. In contrast to the two previous reduction bills voted since the war, complete agreement was reached between the party leaders on the vital income tax schedules.

EDUCATION SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Washington—(AP)—Its new staff of officers elected, the convention of the National Education association neared its close Thursday, with delegates disposing of business matters and hearing an address by Secretary Hoover. Randall J. Conant, superintendent of schools at Cincinnati, was elected president of the department, and the retiring president, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of the district of Columbia schools, automatically became first vice president. David Ward of Wilmington, Delaware, was elected second vice president and E. E. Lewis of Flint, Mich., was chosen a member of the executive committee.

ENFORCEMENT OF LAW KEEPS STATE FREE FROM CRIME

Eckern Tells District Attorneys
Why Lawbreakers Keep
Out of Wisconsin

Milwaukee —(AP)—Life and property are safer in Wisconsin because this state has better law enforcement than its neighbors. Attorney General Herman L. Eckern, told the district attorneys of the state at their annual meeting here today.

The attorney general suggested reducing the laws on the statute books to make the administration of the remaining laws easier and more certain.

"I believe that we should build upon what we have, first making sure that any additions are necessary, and that we are making the fullest use possible of our existing legal machinery," he asserted. "With the experience you have as district attorneys, you can make the most valuable suggestions for the elimination of conflicts and duplications in our statutory law."

MAKE FOR SIMPLICITY
"The more we can reduce our statute law, the easier and more certain will be its administration. This makes at the same time for clarity and simplicity, enabling us far as possible the average citizen to know just what the law is and thus increasing the respect for law which it is at all times our duty to cultivate."

"Obedience and respect for law in Wisconsin" is the result of sudden and sporadic outbreaks of indignation but is the result of painstaking effort day by day and year after year on the part of the law enforcement officials to secure the sympathetic cooperation of the great mass of people," Mr. Eckern told the conference officials.

FEWER MURDERERS
"We have fewer murderers than other states," he said. "Murders promptly go to prison. Gun toting is as unfashionable as it is foolish."

RURAL CARRIERS PUT TRUST IN DOBBIN TODAY

Rural mail carriers of Appleton postoffice were forced to abandon their cars Thursday morning because of the snow storm. The carriers resorted to the more reliable horses and even then most of the men expected difficulty in traversing some drifted stretches.

This was the first time this season that carriers were obliged to use horses to get over their routes.

and unnecessary. General favorable living conditions create fewer incentives to crime. The result is reflected in the statistics. Milwaukee, with a homicide rate of 2.2 per hundred thousand of population is the lowest of all the larger cities of the United States. Minneapolis and New York have respectively 4.0 and 6.4 and three times that of Milwaukee. Pittsburgh 12.1 or eight times that of Milwaukee.

"We have fewer bank failures and less losses of honest savings to the fraudulent moneyer. We put a premium on honesty and open fair dealing. We punish larceny, whether it is done to get a house to practice law or to get a stock or bond. We punish the cheat whether he adulterates our food or sells us short weight in coal. We punish not only the petty thief but equally the corporate or public official who steals millions; we exact taxes in proportion to ability to pay; we get the tax dodger alive or dead."

"If this seems extravagant, or if in particular instances we seem to have fallen short, I only ask you to look across our state lines and note how I have under rather than over stated our more fortunate situation."

SCOTT TELLS NEENAH KIWANIS OF SERVICE

Kiwanis ideals and the value of service were outlined in a talk given by Dr. Virgil B. Scott, president of the Appleton Kiwanis club, at a regular meeting of the Neenah club Tuesday noon at the Valley Inn. This was the first regular luncheon for Neenah Kiwanians since their organization two weeks ago. George Nixon, also a member of the local club, accompanied Dr. Scott to Neenah, and sang several songs.

WEATHER TOO BAD TO ATTEND CONVENTION

John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, and Stanley A. Staidl, assistant district attorney, probably will not attend the Wisconsin District Attorneys convention being held at the Milwaukee Auditorium Thursday and Friday. Mr. Staidl was planning to attend the sessions, but the inclement weather caused him to change his mind. If the weather is more favorable Friday he may attend the final day's meetings, he said.

Prominent district attorneys of the state, Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee and a number of leading judges are on the program for talks and discussions.

Little Probability That Time
for Filing Federal Returns
Will Be Extended

Persons seeking the aid of the revenue collector in the filing of federal income tax returns are still struggling to the city hall, but since the individual income blanks were received a few days ago there has been a gradual increase in the number of calls.

At present George Catlin, deputy collector, in charge of the local office is receiving about 20 calls a day.

TAXPAYERS HAVE LESS THAN THREE WEEKS TO FILE THEIR REPORTS, FOR THERE PROBABLY WILL NOT BE AN EXTENSION OF TIME BEYOND MARCH 15. ALL RETURNS FILED AFTER THAT DATE WILL BE SUBJECT TO PENALTY.

The usual rush of income taxpayers will be somewhat reduced this year on account of the fact that there has been a material increase in the personal exemption for both single and married persons and an increase in the amount determining the filing liability. Mr. Catlin says. The filing liability and the personal exemptions are identical this year, at least on incomes from straight salaries. This may not be the case on incomes from business. This phase of the income tax law and the details of the surtax law are still

With the filing liability and exemptions set at $1,500 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons and additional credit of $400 allowed for each child and dependent, very few laboring men will be numbering among the federal income taxpayers this year. In fact, the new law practically eliminates married wage earners from the taxpaying class.

ONLY 20 CASES OF MEASLES IN APPLETON NOW

Health Officer Reports Big
Improvement in General
Health Condition

The measles epidemic which broke out last month is showing signs of abatement. When the epidemic was at its worst last month nearly 50 cases were reported at one time. Now there are no more than 20 cases, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer.

While measles is not a quarantinable disease, any home that is plagued is in a certain sense restricted. Mr. Sanders announced. For instance any person who has the disease must be isolated for 14 days from the date that the case is reported to the health officer. The health department, according to the statutes, must be notified within 24 hours from the time that the disease is apparent.

Children who have the disease are not permitted to leave the home during the 14 days nor may children other than members of the family who have not contracted the disease enter and leave the placarded house.

Rheumatism Recipe

Ex-sergeant Paul Case, Room 723 Grace Building, Brockton, Mass., states that while serving with the American Army in France he was given a prescription for rheumatism and neuritis that has produced most gratifying results in thousands of cases. He says the prescription cost him nothing so he asks nothing for it, but will send it free to any one who writes him.

Milwaukee Railroad in the Northwest

Not all who live in the territory served by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway may realize the value of this great railroad to the people of the Northwest.

It is the only line owning its own railroad and operating its own trains all the way from Illinois and Indiana to Puget Sound.

In Washington, Idaho and Montana it owns about 2,500 miles of main line and branches, much of it costly mountain railroad, and all of it built without government aid through land grants or otherwise.

It gives to these three states the distinction of being the home of the longest stretch of electrified railroad in the world—650 miles, over four mountain ranges.

In these three states it furnishes employment to close to 8,000 persons, whose payroll amounts to about $12,500,000 each year.

These three states collect from the Milwaukee Railroad about $2,250,000 yearly in Taxes for public benefit.

From producers and manufacturers in these states this railroad purchases each year over $4,500,000 worth of materials and supplies needed to maintain and operate its property.

The extension of the Milwaukee Railroad to the Coast, at a time when existing lines were unable to meet satisfactorily the transportation demands of that territory, was followed by a heavy movement of traffic which continued up to the acute business depression after the war.

This tonnage was largely developed by the Milwaukee Railroad—as proved by the fact that 69% (more than two thirds) of the ton miles handled on the western extension in 1924 was non-competitive business; originating at or destined to points thereon not served by any other railroad.

The Milwaukee Railroad serves 731 stations, all of them having facilities to handle traffic, in these three states. Of these only 152 are also served by other railroads.

This means that the Milwaukee Railroad furnishes the greater part of its service to communities in the Northwest that otherwise would not enjoy the benefit of rail transportation, and it also means that to this extent, at least, the Milwaukee Railroad has created real values in these communities, which, without its availability, would shrink and disappear.

Summarizing: The Milwaukee Railroad in Washington, Idaho and Montana supports directly some 8,000 residents and their families, and pays in hard cash within these states close to $20,000,000 a year for Payrolls, Taxes and Materials.

To these must be added the indirect but tremendous financial benefits to the Northwest of this railroad's services as a transportation agency, and of the agricultural and commercial values established by and dependent upon its activities.

The Milwaukee Railroad has therefore contributed much to the development of Washington, Idaho and Montana, and—because of its unequalled facilities—is destined to play an increasingly important part in the future growth of the great Northwest.

portant than words or preconceived notions.
If Senator Lenroot is defeated for the election, the court opponents will hail it as proof that Wisconsin and the country are with them. Here again they will make a mistake, for no such conclusion will be justified. Wisconsin is not going to elect or defeat Mr. Lenroot because of his record on the world court. The election will turn on politics and forces within the state which have little or nothing to do with this issue.
If the people of Wisconsin were to judge Mr. Lenroot entirely by his support of the court, we believe there is enough intelligence and discernment in the state to give him credit for the capable performance of a duty that was both an honor and an act of high service to his country. Mr. Lenroot does not need to be ashamed to be in the company he is in on this question. He does not need to be ashamed of his own courage and independence in dealing with it. To any impartial observer, any open-minded thinker, we have no hesitation in saying Mr. Lenroot will hold his own in the long range debates now taking place with the senator from Idaho. He is allied to a great principle, the inherent righteousness of which cannot, we think, be successfully challenged. The people of Wisconsin may condemn this experiment in the adjudication of international disputes and America's affiliation with it, because the political machine running this state tells them to, but they will not if they think the proposition through for themselves.

CLEANING UP CHICAGO
At the instance of the federal government, inspectors and police are rounding up in Chicago alien gunmen and gangsters for deportation. It is a worthy scheme, a necessary move to save Chicago from itself. It has long been evident that Chicago will not clean its own house. Crime is so interwoven with its politics and government it is powerless to lift a hand. Only a monumental housecleaning could give Chicago security, and there is no prospect of that.
Coming back to deportation, the federal government will be engaged in a more worthy and wholesome application of the immigration law by ruling out and ridding the country of alien criminals than of defenseless women on charges of "moral turpitude." We ought to at least be consistent in our pretenses of morality and equality. We ought not to swallow murderers, bomb-throwers and high-jacks, and go into convulsions because we have to breathe the same air with a woman who ran off with somebody else's husband. As it is, we give a definite place of standing and security, and admission to our shores, of foreign cutthroats and gunmen, many of whom are imported for the very purpose of employing their services.

Perhaps the knowledge of these disagreeable and scandalous facts is one reason why a mountainous wave of protest against the action of the immigration authorities and the secretary of labor in the case of Lady Cathcart has swept over the country. After all, the people are not for thieves and murderers, anymore than they are for blue laws, persecution and intolerance. When will our public men wake up to these truths? The answer is, not until the people themselves wake them up.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN
BROTHERHOOD
I've found it pays a fellow if he's of the friendly type, and spreads a bit of happiness around. To mingle with your fellow man and keep good feeling ripe, is bound to make your own foundation grown.
We often overlook the fact—how small we really are. Yet, give it proper thought and you will own, that friendliness and brother-love is best of all, by far. From that the world, since time began, has been grown.
The road you take—your path through life—of course, is up to you, but after all, your happiness depends on spirit and on feeling that is only coming through when you are sharing happiness with friends.
God meant that you should make the best of things upon this land, and reap what hearty benefit you can, but measure full can only come when you can understand the meaning of the brotherhood of man.
Women may talk more than men, but they don't say as much. That shows women have the most sense.
But a grape has a better time fermenting than it does becoming grape juice.
Every now and then a bathing girl goes in wading.
Things are not perfect. If cantaloupes were as big as watermelons they would cost too much.
A small town is a place full of innocent bystanders.
Even if smoking is nice it keeps a lot of men from getting nervous enough to go to work.

WORLD COURT WON'T DEFEAT LENROOT
Senator Borah has come into Wisconsin to turn public opinion against Senator Lenroot because Mr. Lenroot led the administration's fight in the senate for ratification of the resolution of adherence to the world court. Of course this is not the main purpose of Mr. Borah's campaign. That purpose is doomed to failure. The decision of the United States has been made. We are going to participate in the world court, provided the conditions of our adherence are acceptable to the forty-eight odd nations which have set it up, and the presumption is they will be acceptable.
Mr. Borah is not going to cause a repeal of the resolution. The most he can hope to do is to bolster up a little longer prejudice against the League of Nations, and hostility toward Europe and the activities of the world court. Time and events will answer him there. The work of the court will speak for itself, as well as the work of the League, and those things are more im-

NOW I WANT TO COME CLEAN
I had a very bad dream the other night. I've been thinking a lot of it ever since. A queer, crazy sort of dream, as most dreams that one recalls are, and yet it seems to me now that there may have been some symbolical significance in my dream, and that I had better begin to get right with the public on sundry questions of health.
In my dream I was perfectly satisfied with all the arrangements, especially the absence of flowers, and very particularly carnations. Nothing can excite my sympathies for the corpse more than that horrible scent of carnations. I believe that if any malicious person should send a bunch of carnations to my obsequies, I'd turn in my cubicle and grit my (85 per cent) and my dentist's (15 per cent) teeth at him.
But my dream was all serene and just as a plain man would have it. The sorrowing relatives were doing their stuff with reasonable restraint. There was nothing very black about me except the prospect of my destination. I felt some slight chagrin about the remarks I fancied people would make—the doctors and health experts somehow don't live as long as their patients and pupils do. And this set me to wondering what the dickens I had died of anyway. I couldn't get a clew as to that. I was just dead.

Well, some new arrivals were shown in to have a look at the remains. And of course they mumbled the usual banalities—how natural I looked, and what a fine man I was, et cetera, which I didn't mind very much—a corpse gets used to it after the first 24 hours duty. But these birds were a little more sincere about it than most of the rest had been. They stood there admiring my peaceful countenance until the general manager had left the room. Then one of 'em sprang it.
"Yes, indeed, as natural as life," she observed, "but don't you think it is because he looks kinda dirty?"
Old Mr. Gilchrist, who has been the undefeated hero in many a glorious battle in this neighborhood but is now converted to strict neutrality in thought and deed, has not taken a wet wash, a soak, I mean, in five years, and yet he is cleaner by far than Tony the Irish Wop, who gets his tubbing oftener than I do. But Mr. Gilchrist belongs to a race which is instinctively cleaner and much farther aloof from the grime and filth of civilization than is Tony's race. Notwithstanding domestication, a cat clings more closely to nature than a dog does.

But I must tell my Saganaw friend that his yarn about the miners getting backache from bathing is baloney. Gentlemen must bathe now and then if only to have something to talk about, or their associates will. Of the two evils let a gentleman talk about his own bathing.
I believe in cleanliness, and for that reason I advocate the sponge bath or the shower bath and condemn the tub bath.
But we ought to remember that at the time old J. Wesley observed that cleanliness was next to godliness was not far from superstition, witchcraft and general hypocrisy.

manhandled." It is in answer to Gloria Swanson's "Manhandled," which created such a furor when shown, and is by the same author, recently running in the Saturday Evening Post. This photoplay gives Dix the best chance yet to display his undeniable comedy talent and is a farce on the present day west and its modernized cowboys. Because he is a man, Dix goes west to become one of the pioneers of the plains. He finds the cowboys riding in flivvers, golf courses on the ranches and modern furnishings in the palatial homes. When his girl writes that she is coming west to see him, the fun begins when Dix tries to camouflage things to make them resemble what she believes the west is like.

SMALL TOWN ATMOSPHERE IN "THE AUCTION BLOCK"

With "The Auction Block" the attraction at the Elite theatre Thursday and Friday, Hobart Henley returns to the small town atmosphere of the early productions which made him famous. It was "The Flirt" and "The Turmoil," both Booth Tarkington stories, that brought this director's talent to the public's attention.

Most of the story of "The Auction Block" takes place in the small town of Palmdale, South Carolina. It contains all the petty jealousies, the undercurrents of ill-feeling, as well as the good-heartedness and generosity of a small town, and as Henley demonstrates with "The Flirt," he is particularly capable of transferring this atmosphere to pictures.

Charles Ray plays the part of the city man, instead of the country boob for a change, and Eleanor Boardman is featured with him as "Lorelei Knight" in this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. Sally O'Neil, Ernest Gillen, Charles Clary, David Torrence, James Corrigan, Forest Seabury and Ned Sparks complete the cast. Frederic and Fanny Hatton adapted the Rex Beach novel to the screen for production by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

MARIAN NIXON and BUCK JONES in "DURAND OF THE BAD LANDS" WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

AT THE NEW BIJOU FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

New Bijou Theatre Friday and Saturday is undoubtedly the best western thriller that this hard-riding cowboy has made. Directed by Lynn Reynolds, maker of "The Lone Star Ranger" and "The Deadwood Coach," this production fairly breathes the spirit of the West and is full of action, pathos and humor, from the first title to the fadeout.

The story, by Maibelle Heikes Justice, involves an alleged outlaw and the daughter of a desert recluse. Into this pretty romance is injected the menace of an unscrupulous sheriff, a gold robbery and other intrigue. While some of the incidents savor of other western productions, the treatment has a freshness and originality that holds the spectators' attention throughout.

Marian Nixon, sweet and demure as ever, gives a splendid interpretation of the daughter of the desert. Malcolm Waite, as the sheriff, is satisfactory. Others in the cast are Fred De Silva, Luke Cosgrove, George Lesley, Buck Black, Seesal Ann Johnson, James Corrigan and Carol Lombard.

PERFECT TEAMWORK IN "THE AUCTION BLOCK"

Another perfect screen combination has been effected, this time by the presence of Charles Ray and Eleanor Boardman in one picture. It is "The Auction Block," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production at the Elite theatre today and tomorrow. Hobart Henley directed this adaptation of the famous Rex Beach novel.

The work of the two stars is always in perfect co-ordination. There is no overshadowing of one by the other, but each acts as a perfect complement to the other.

Charles Ray plays the part of a young heir to Pittsburg millions, and Eleanor is seen as Lory Knight, a beauty contest winner from Palmdale, South Carolina. Idealizing Ray's type of roles heretofore, it would seem that his part is a little out of keeping, but he handles it with perfect ease and nonchalance. While Ray's methods of approach is different from most of the screen's famous lovers, it is, nevertheless exceedingly effective.

Sally O'Neil and Ernest Gillen as the two Lane children, give very fine performances, while Charles Clary, David Torrence, James Corrigan, Forest Seabury and Ned Sparks distinguish themselves in smaller roles.

Frederic and Fanny Hatton wrote the adaptation of this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

THIES GETS $100 IN ASSAULT CASE

Jury Awards Amends for Injuries Inflicted by George Rammer

George Thies was awarded $100 by a jury in municipal court Wednesday afternoon in his suit against George Rammer, whom he accused of assault and battery on Nov. 1. Thies alleged that Rammer struck him in the face and on the body, cracking his jawbone in one place and breaking it in another. He became ill as a result and the jaw still is sore. Thies alleged. He also said that he was unable to work and has spent $28 for medical treatment. His physicians declared that the jaw would be permanently injured and disfigured, he said. Thies asked $500 damages.

Rammer denied that the fight was responsible for Thies trouble and asked that the suit be dismissed. Trial was started Wednesday morning and the jury brought in its verdict at 3:25 in the afternoon.

The suit resulted from a fight between the young men on the evening of Nov. 1 at Rainbow gardens. The evidence indicated during the trial showed that the men were members of a party of five couples which had spent the evening at the gardens. Four of the young men, including Rammer and Thies had been drinking during the evening and Rammer didn't want Thies to drive his car. A quarrel between Thies and Rammer followed and Rammer was alleged to have struck Thies. Witnesses called to the stand were A. Lang, Barney Hughes and Irving Hanneman.

Telling, representatives on the executive board of the valley scout council, and W. G. Telling, chairman of the court of honor.

Plans were made to have Menasha scouts sell postcard views of an old Revolutionary War cannon in Menasha park to raise money to have such. The cannon has become badly dilapidated through neglect, and the present campaign to restore it was instigated, and is under the direction of C. M. Crawford.

The question of merging the Neenah and Menasha scout councils into one organization was discussed, but no action was taken on the matter. A rally of the two councils is being planned for the middle of March, but the exact date has not been set.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARBARA HAWLEY, 25, prefers a career so she jilts BRUCE REYNOLDS, her fiance, and gets a job on the Appleton Telegraph. Adventure begins at a roadhouse where a prominent man kills himself and, by means of a red scarf Barbara connects LYDIA STACY, wealthy widow, with the case.

Mrs. Stacy likes Bruce. When he repels her advances she tells of a letter from her late husband, the late Mr. Bruce, who was a really firm, Vale Acres, is crooked. As though to bear this out, Manners, Bruce's partner, absconds.

Bruce weds VIOLETTA CRANBY, factory girl, who is advised by Barbara's "lover" column. Barbara, bitter, plunges into her work. At a women's club convention she sees Manners and has him arrested. He implicates Bruce.

Barbara confronts her with the red scarf. At the last moment of the trial Mrs. Stacy surprises by defending Bruce, who then is acquitted.

Barbara's daughter, Fanny, who shares Barbara's apartment, marries Jerome Hall, man about town, and they go to Chicago. Barbara is lonely and when a child is born to Violetta and Bruce she is even more depressed. She accepts a job on a New York theatrical magazine. In New York the first thing she does is call up BOB JEFFRIES, her friend and former police reporter for the Telegraph, who is employed on a New York daily.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV
There was a moment's halt, during which Barbara held her breath.

"Hello," said a man's voice. "Hello," she cried, "this is Barbara. I'm here."

"Barbara who?"

"Barbara Hawley, of course. Didn't you know?"

"Why, Bob, I had no idea you were in town. Gee, for a minute I was mulling my brains to think who Barbara could be, here in New York. I'm not good at voices over the phone. But what brings you here?"

She told him in a breath, jumbling her sentences and not waiting for a reply.

When she had finished, he broke in. "Fine and dandy," he said. "Hope you'll like our town. Great place in many ways. Pretty laid in others."

He paused.

Barbara waited a moment and then plunged into gossip from Appleton. He had said nothing about seeing her.

"They talked on for a few moments. At last Bob said, 'What are you doing tonight?'"

"Nothing," her answer was breathless.

"Well, suppose I come by about seven and take you to dinner and a show. Then we'll step a dance or two, if you say so."

"Gorgeous," breathed Barbara.

She surveyed herself in the glass. The grime of the journey was still visible on her face and her hair was straight.

After a steaming bath and an hour's sleep, Barbara made her way to the hotel beauty shop. "I want everything necessary to make me look my best," she said to the haughty dame in charge.

Her bill astonished her but she paid it without flinching and went back to her room. The attendants had worked wonders with her skin and hair. She could scarcely tear her gaze away from the pink-checked, shining-haired person who greeted her in the glass.

The rest of the toilet occupied several hours. When the dress came back, Barbara slipped into it with a little shiver of pleasure. It was of silver lace and blue velvet ribbons. A last minute purchase in Appleton.

She sat down to put a last polish on her nails. The telephone bell tinkled. "Someone waiting for you in the lobby, Miss Hawley," said the smooth voice of the switchboard girl.

Barbara snatched up her cape, shot a last look in the mirror and rushed out.

Bob stepped up to her as she left the elevator. He was wearing an evening jacket whose tails did not stick out like an angry rooster's.

Barbara sighed with relief.

"Babs," he cried, wringing her hand. "Gosh, but it's good to see you."

Barbara smiled up at him. She spoke diffidently.

"It's good to be here, too, Bob."

"We'll catch a taxi outside and rush right over to the Salon d'Argent. I haven't any nice, comfy, stripped racer prancing at the curb. Had to sell it."

"The parking problem was too much for me, and besides, there's no place in this town for a stripped second-hand rattle, among all these imported models, with their shining plate and liveried drivers and their moten engines."

The Salon d'Argent was on Broadway in the Roaring Forties. "Let's leave the cab and walk a little way," said Barbara. "I want to get a good view."

Bob smiled and told the driver to stop. They walked along silently for a few minutes. Ribbons and many-moth splashes of colored lights flickered and changed overhead.

Rainbow memorials to player pianos, tooth paste and chewing gum added their gaudy beauty to the canvas.

Bob let her look her fill for some moments. "How do you like it, Babs?" he asked at last.

Barbara shivered. "It's gross and terrifying, but it's beautiful, too. I'm going to learn to know it. I can't hope I can fight back at it, too."

"Manhattan plays it more gross, Fanny," answered Bob. "And it goes out many of the strong. But there's nothing like it in America, or in the world."

"They were entering the doorway of the Salon d'Argent. Steps led downward to a lobby where attendants stepped forward for their wraps. The dining room beyond was windowless and low-ceilinged. Its walls were hung with black velvet, against which silver crescent moons shone in the light of innumerable candles. The room was crowded with small tables. Barbara's first glimpse was of a multitude of black coats on round tables, back to back, down aisle after aisle of tiny tables. There seemed to be no chance of making their way to the other end of the room, where a head waiter was signaling them.

Bob stepped forward and put a hand on her arm. "Forge ahead, old kid," he said. "It doesn't look as if we'd ever make it, but if the others got through, we can."

A narrow path opened up before them, but many scowling faces turned as they passed. "I've bumped every head on this side," whispered Barbara.

"Never mind. You'll be bumped in your turn."

At last they were settled at a table and a waiter was handing them menu cards.

There was a stirring at the tables around them. Barbara glanced over her shoulder and saw the crowd making toward a cleared space in the center of the room, so small that she had not before noticed it.

"Are they going to try to dance there?" she whispered to Bob.

"Sure thing," he answered. "But they won't dance. They'll just lock their partners in their arms and stand still rhythmically."

"That was precisely what they did. The jazz orchestra began a muted melody which rose to a fury of saxophones and drums. The dancers wriggled faster, but they did not move more than a foot from their original places."

"I know a lot of places down in the Village that are more fun than this," remarked Bob. "But I thought for your first night you should see gay Broadway at its gayest. This place is supposed to hit as fast as a race as any. But for me—give me more food and more room and a bit less gayety."

Barbara sat watching the dancers, too much fascinated to do more than nibble at the elaborate dishes which the waiter set before her.

The music stopped and the dancers crept back an inch at a time, to the tables they had left.

"We'll just eat here and perhaps do our dancing after the show," said Bob. "I've tickets for the Polies."

Barbara beamed at him. "I'm having such a gorgeous time."

"That's good. You're looking a knockout tonight too, Barbara. Never saw you look so well."

She flushed. It was the first masculine praise she had heard for a long time. "How can people get tired of New York and talk all that rot about the joys of their home towns and so forth?" she asked.

Bob smiled. "To tell the truth, Babs, I myself hanker after Appleton sometimes. It's when I'm alone and can't think of a congenial soul to spend the evening with that I get a burning desire for the old Telegraph office and its gang and the movie theaters back on College-ave."

Barbara shook her head. "The movie theaters on Appleton street, when you can have the real theaters on Broadway? I don't understand it."

"Well, I don't want to be a gloom spread, but just wait till you've been here a while. You'll be sneaking off for Appleton some of these times, if only a two or three-day visit. Think I'll go back myself for Christmas. May have a special reason then, anyhow."

Barbara looked at him curiously, but he vouchsafed no explanation of his remark.

"I'll chance it," she said.

The spasms of music and the wrappings of the crowd on the checkered dance floor went on. Barbara noticed many faces that were flushed with drink. Corks popped on all sides and waiters passed with an endless supply of ice buckets.

"Have you had enough of this, Babs?" asked Bob, looking at his watch.

"Not really enough," she answered, "but if it's late we'll have to go. There'll be other nights."

"Yes," said Bob, "but if I were you I'd ask my friends to introduce me to some of the really good European restaurants around town, and the tea rooms where you see real people—people you've read about like Joe Barrows and Laurette Taylor and George Jean Nathan and Edna St. Vincent Millay. They don't hang around these joints."

Barbara looked at him anxiously.

"The parking problem was too much for me, and besides, there's no place in this town for a stripped second-hand rattle, among all these imported models, with their shining plate and liveried drivers and their moten engines."

The Salon d'Argent was on Broadway in the Roaring Forties. "Let's leave the cab and walk a little way," said Barbara. "I want to get a good view."

CHARLES RAY and ELEANOR BOARDMAN in "THE AUCTION BLOCK" AT THE ELITE TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

"I haven't any friends in New York, you know," she said quietly.

They took another taxi to the theater. As they drove through Forty-eighth street, Bob leaned out of the window. Then he drew his head back and pointed to a building.

"That's where your office is, Babs. See the sign on the window?"

Barbara looked out. Several stories up there was a large window bearing the words, "Footlights Magazine."

She stared at the building front. It was not pretentious.

"Is that where Harvey Christopher has his office?" she said to Bob.

"Harvey Christopher? For land's sake, you didn't think he hung around that magazine joint, did you? Why, his criticisms are all written up in the Adirondacks or down at Palm Beach. He never blows into the Footlights office."

"Why, yes, I thought so," Barbara replied. "His name was signed to the letter I received."

"It was signed by a secretary then," said Bob. "None of the men of his class hang around the magazine offices. They don't have to."

Barbara said no more, but stared out the taxi window at the passing throng.

As they left the theater several hours later, Bob pulled out his watch. "I say, Babs, that was a long show. It's nearly midnight. If you don't mind, I think we'll postpone the dancing till another night. I have to catch an early train to Albany in the morning."

"All right with me," replied Barbara. "I'm a little tired, anyway."

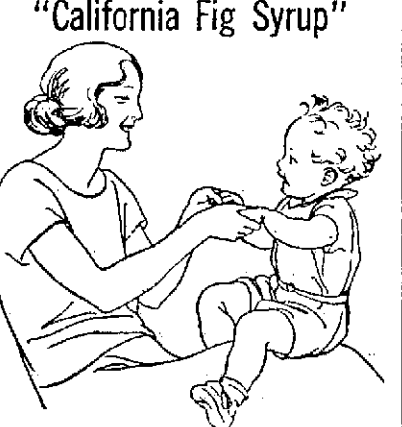

He said good night in the Carmore lobby. "I'll ring you up here or at the Footlights office in a day or two, Babs. We'll plan another party and I want you to meet some of the newspaper people here."

"Fine, Bob. Call me at the office. I don't think I shall sport the curl more for many days, at fourteen dollars per."

STUDENTS LOSE GRADES IF THEY ARE LATE, ABSENT

Principal Helble Announces New Policy to Improve School Attendance

Absence and tardiness on the part of students will be treated more severely in the future than has been the custom at Appleton high school, according to an announcement made by H. H. Helble, principal, at a general assembly meeting Wednesday morning at the school. Under the new system adopted by the faculty at a meeting Monday afternoon, grades will be reduced for absence or tardiness.

Each absence or tardiness will mean a reduction of two points in the quarter grade in that course. If the absence or tardiness is excused by the high school office, the student will be given the privilege of making up the work missed, thus erasing the two point reduction. But if an unexcused absence or tardiness occurs, the work cannot be made up or the reduction removed.

Except in the case of illness, any time lost from the study hall will require an equal amount of time to be spent in extra work. Parents will be notified by the school whenever a second unexcused absence or tardiness occurs.

Tightening up the standards of school attendance is receiving the attention of the high schools and colleges in the country and is of importance for satisfactory work. Mr. Helble said, last week a bulletin on this subject was sent to parents of high school students, asking their cooperation in eliminating tardiness and reducing to a minimum the number of absences. Since that time there has been a marked improvement in the situation, Mr. Helble said, for only from four to six pupils have been tardy in the past few days whereas in the past it was usual to have from 15 to 20 persons tardy.

One of the aims of the high school this year, Mr. Helble said, has been

PLUMBERS KEPT BUSY LAST YEAR

Just as Many Plumbing Installations in 1925 as in 1924, Bauer Reports

In spite of the fact that 1925 saw less general construction and fewer homes built than in the previous year, there was no letup in the plumbing installations, according to John Bauer, city plumbing inspector. Both the number of fixtures installed and the number of sewer and water extensions were about equal to 1924.

In his annual report Mr. Bauer to raise the standards in regard to absence and tardiness, for the students were careless in the matter.

With a closer checking system and the grade reduction penalties an upward trend is expected by the faculty.

The cast of the junior play, "Seven Chances," to be given at the Appleton theater March 1, gave a stunt at the assembly meeting to advertise the play. Mrs. John Busel, dramatic coach, made an announcement about the ticket sale.

Three songs were sung by the high school boys glee club, under the direction of Carl McKee.

reports $1,679 collected in fees for permits. This made the office practically self-sustaining. Of this amount $972 was collected in fees for plumbing fixture permits and $707 in sewer and water extension permits. Mr. Bauer issued permits for 1,949 plumbing fixtures and 495 sewer and water permits. The fixtures included 432 floor drains, 374 wash basins, 26 conductors, 321 sinks, 296 bath tubs, 19 laundry tubs, 10 shower baths, 2 slop sinks, 2 drinking fountains and 467 miscellaneous permits.

Sore throats need this Double-Treatment

YOUR sore, aching throat probably needs the soothing, healing vapors that arise from Vicks VapoRub when it is rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime. And Vicks acts two ways at once:

(1) It is vaporized by the body heat and inhaled right to the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing;

(2) At the same time it warms and stimulates the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the pain and soreness and thus helps the vapors inhaled to relieve the congestion.

Good for the colds of all the family.

ORANGE FIVE IS SET FOR FOND DU LAC TUSSLE

FRUTHMEN ARE FAVORITES IN FRIDAY'S TILT

Return of Voeks Bolsters Defensive Power of Appleton Team

Friday's Games
APPLETON AT FOND DU LAC
Sheboygan at Oshkosh.
East vs West Green Bay.

HAVING rounded his reorganized basketball squad into a determined smooth-working machine, Coach McAuliffe will lead his Orange cagers to Fond du Lac Friday evening grimly resolved to upset the championship aspirations of Coach Fruth's scarlet clad high school youths.

It will be a bitter battle, with Appleton's representatives accorded less than an equal chance of winning, but Coach McAuliffe has instilled a new spirit into his youngsters which bodes ill for those teams remaining on the season's schedule.

Appleton barely won from Fond du Lac here, 15-13, when Lutz and Kneip two regular forwards, still in the lineup, and with the impending struggle scheduled to take place on the Fruthmen's floor, with the above mentioned players absent from the local lineup, add appear to be overwhelmingly in favor of the team from the other end of the lake.

The return of Voeks, stocky guard has restored the defensive power of the Orange machine and will insure the Fond du Lac youths plenty of difficulty in their tries for goals. Voeks has fully recovered from his recent illness and is back in uniform with all his pep and enthusiasm.

COOKSON SHOWING SPEED S

Frank Cookson, who is filling out the forward position opposite Strutz, has shown much improvement the past week. He is a flash on the floor, traveling up and down the court with lightning-like rapidity, and his former tendency to wildness has decreased considerably. Frank is also developing a ready eye for the hoop and should, if he continues at the present rate of development, be a scoring power in the conference next year.

The lineup of the Fond du Lac squad may be weakened somewhat by the absence of Capt. Del Hutchins, who has been out of practice for more than a week with injuries, but his place will be capably filled by "Jimmy" Lutzell, who showed to advantage in the Oshkosh tilt last week. Even though Hutchins is back in school by Friday, Coach Fruth has indicated it is unlikely he will use his star guard, as with the Manitowish game still remaining and the district tournament to follow, the Fond du Lac basketball head prefers to chance the Appleton game and have Hutchins recover completely.

On the following evening the strong Neenah high school representatives, who administered a trouncing to the Lawrence freshman squad a few days back, will be met here at the Armory.

WEATHER WILL SET STUART ICEBOAT RACE

Oshkosh — Just when the annual iceboat battle for the Stuart cup is to be staged on Lake Winnebago depends upon the vagaries of the weather man, John Buckstaff, owner of the local craft. Debutante, stated, but the assurance was given that the race will be pulled off. At present, the ice is a trifle too rough for good racing but Mr. Buckstaff believes that a few days of thaw, followed by cold weather, will put the ice in excellent condition for racing.

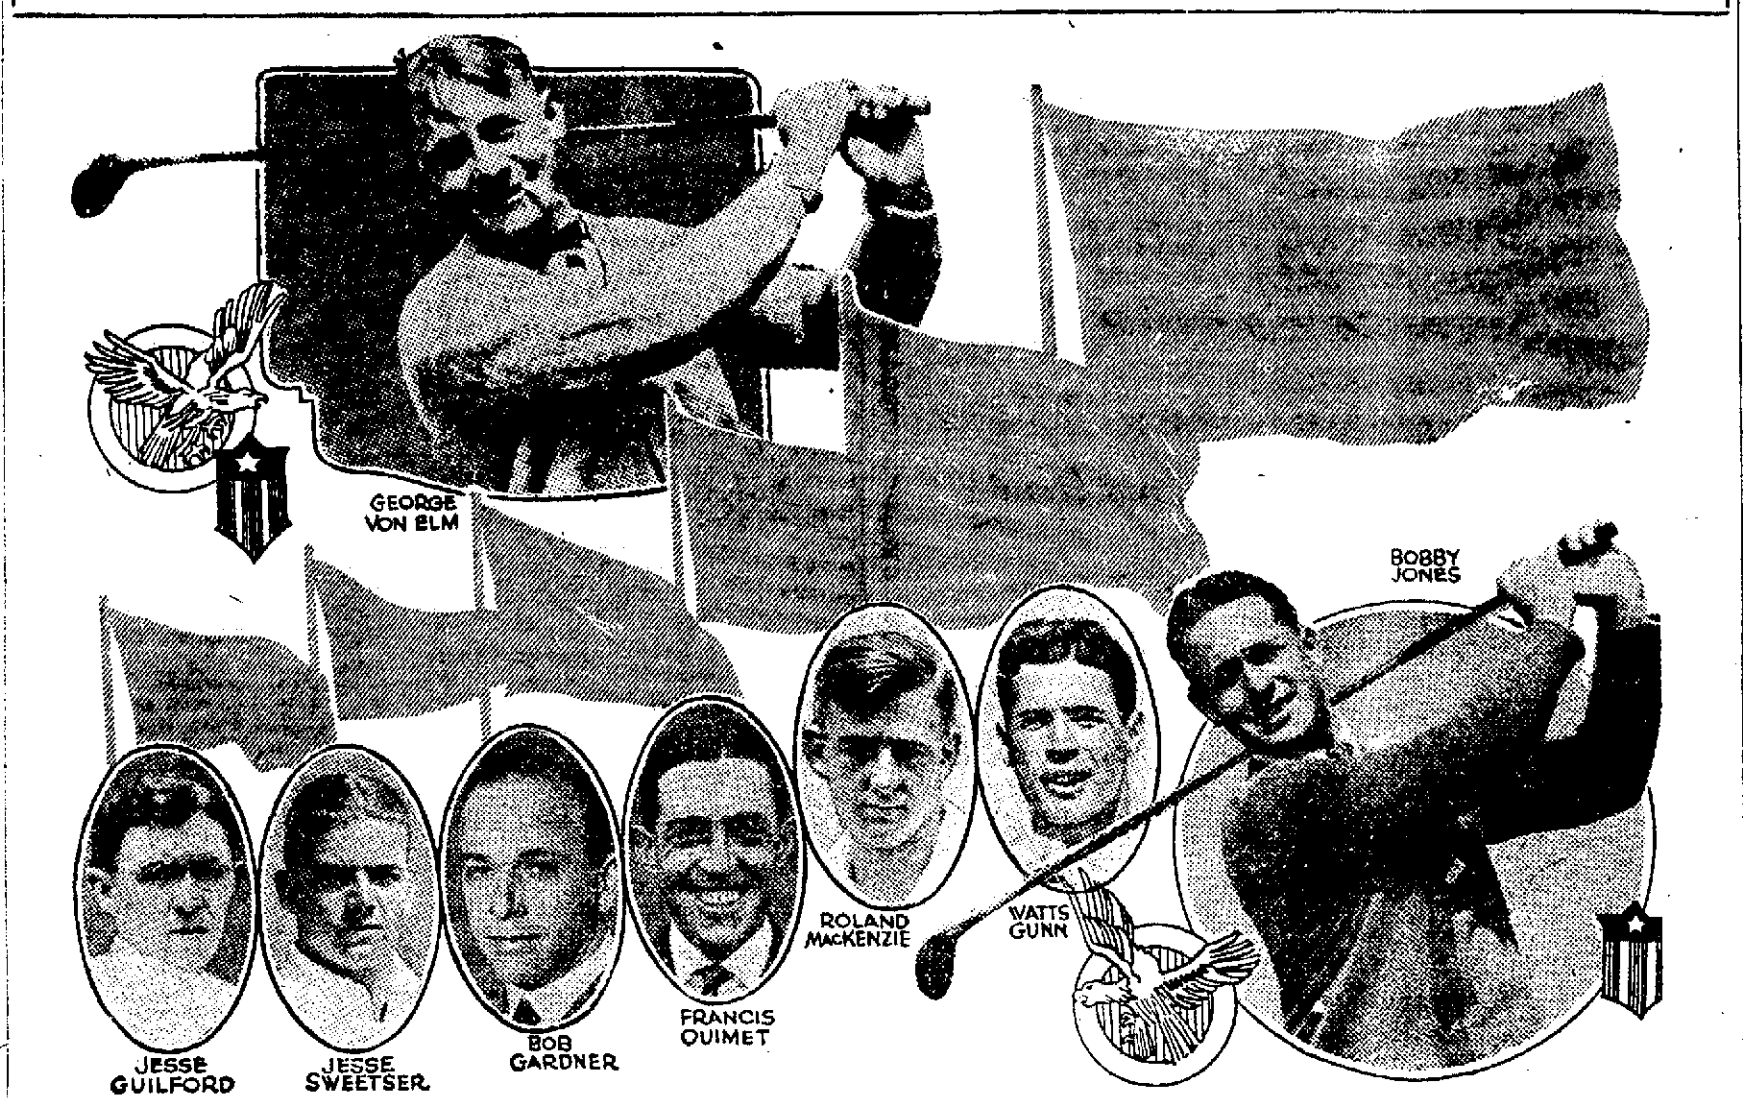

The Stuart cup race is one of the most important contests in the state and is by far the most famous in this vicinity. The contest consists of five heats, one race each day, the winner taking three out of five. Should the winner carry off three races before the five heats have been run, of course, the additional heats would not be raced.

WON HERE IN 1923

The cup came to Oshkosh in 1923 when Debutante, skippered by John Buckstaff of this city, won at Kalamazoo. Last winter Mr. Buckstaff defended the cup against Miss Milwaukee, and emerged from the contest victorious.

The owner of the Milwaukee craft was in Oshkosh Sunday and gave the speedy challenger a "going over" and feels confident that this year he can give the Debutante a real battle. The Miss Milwaukee is now equipped with the maroon type of rigging and has a new set of stainless steel runners. It has been here for some time awaiting favorable weather.

WILL COMPETE FOR WALKER CUP

Six of the amateur golfers selected by the United States Golf Association to represent this country in the Walker cup matches, to be held in England this year, have already accepted. They are Captain Bob Gardner, Champion Bobby Jones, Watts Gunn, Roland Mackenzie, Jesse Sweetser and Francis Quimet.

The two other stars named by the committee, Jesse Guilford and George Von Elm, have not yet given a definite answer. Both are anxious to play against the Britons and will do so unless business prevents it.

It is to be hoped Von Elm will be able to make the trip, as he is one of the best of the amateurs. Only recently he finished second to Harry Cooper in the California open.

The naming of Gunn and Mackenzie came as a surprise, as both are youngsters and inexperienced. While Mackenzie was medalist at the last national amateur event, he didn't get very far in competition. He has yet to prove that he is a strong competitive player. Gunn is getting much valuable experience playing in the Florida events this winter paired with Bobby Jones.

The failure to name Chick Evans is hard to understand. He would have been a better man than Mackenzie, without a doubt. Evans, off his game for about a year, is again playing in fine form.

Van den Heuvel Cement Works retained its firm hold of first place in the standing of the Little Chute Bowling league this week by defeating the Lumbee and Fuel Co., its nearest competitors. In two games out of three, Veckelien Furniture kept a few points above Dick's five by a two game victory over the latter crew, while Lamer's Hotel increased its percentage noticeably by pouncing upon the downtrodden Schommer's Insurance squad for three games. C. O. F. No. 450 treated the Reynolds' Service Station in a similar manner.

Theodore Oudenhoven tops the column of individual averages for the league with a mark of 192 for 21 games. Only two pins behind him is John De Bruin with an average of 190. Those in the 180 class are: George Van den Heuvel, 189; Henry Heesacker, 189; A. Wynboom, 188; Frank Hammen, 184; Edward Vorstegen, 180; Peter Van den Brand, 180.

BLUE FIVE PLAYS RIPON TOMORROW

Is Third Last Game of Season and Second Last Home Appearance

The game with Ripon college engages here Friday evening at the Armory marks the third last for Coach Denry's Lawrentian basketball five and the second last home appearance of the season. On Tuesday evening, March 2, the Blues will journey to Beloit for a return meeting with Coach Mills' youths, and on Friday night of the same week the strong Carroll squad will play here in an attempt to trip the Lawrence representatives for the second time this year.

The Friday night encounter will give the Denrymen an opportunity to revenge the defeat slipped them at the hands of the Ripon crew in a close battle three several weeks ago. It was chiefly through the efforts of Jones that the Riponites won, as this individual enjoyed an evening of basket shooting such as is rare, even in this day of big scores.

BILLY EVANS Says

SPITBALL PITCHERS

"Whom do you consider the greatest spitball pitcher in the history of the game?"

My mail of the other day brought such an inquiry.

"Since there are only a few spitball pitchers in the majors and the delivery will soon be but a memory," continued the letter, "we would welcome your opinion as to the relative merits of the pitchers who have used that style of delivery."

It is a rather difficult matter to answer that query in one definite sentence, since there are so many angles to the situation.

Off hand I would say that Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox was the most effective of all spitball pitchers I have ever umpired.

However, I have in mind several pitchers who had a more deceptive spitball than Walsh. His remarkable effectiveness was a matter of control as well as a break on the ball.

Walsh's splitter dipped only slightly but broke sharply. It is a well known fact that a spitball is effective only when pitched low. So un-uncanny was Walsh's control that he seemed able to keep it at the knee on every pitch.

Rated for effectiveness, which after all is the end desired in pitching, I would say that Walsh should be ranked first among the spitballers.

WALSH A MARVEL

For out and out effectiveness, I never saw a pitcher who delivered a freakier ball than Jimmy Dygert, who 15 years ago was a valued member of the Athletics pitching staff.

Dygert's spitball looked like a fast ball until within a short distance of the plate and then it seemed to duck downward in a most deceptive manner. Opposing batters were always toppling Dygert's spitball. His control was just as good, therefore he never reached the heights that his ability deserved.

Jack Chesbro, one of the first of the big league pitchers to cash in on the spitball, worked much after the manner of Walsh. There was nothing so very different or difficult about his delivery but he was able to keep it knee high and that prevented rival clubs from taking much liberty with it.

Just when Walsh was slipping, Russell Ford came along with what was believed to be the most unusual of all spitball deliveries. Instead of making the ball break down, he would break it in or out and give it a hop according to the manner in which he threw the ball.

Ford went through all the motions of pitching a splitter but in reality was throwing the emery ball.

To Jimmy Dygert I would give the credit of throwing the freakiest spitball I have ever tried to judge. Sometimes it seemed as if his spitball broke a foot. The batters insisted over and over more than that.

HELEN WINS AGAIN

Monte Carlo—(P)—Miss Helen Willis advanced a step nearer to possession of the Duke of Connaught's gold cup Thursday when she defeated Miss Lily Cadle of England, 6-0, 6-1, and thus reached the semi-finals of the Monte Carlo tournament.

been for years one of the outstanding pitchers in the majors. Stanley Coveleski of Washington, one of the truly great spitballs, has used it more than any of the others. "He starts and finishes with a splitter. It is the way players speak of "Covey."

Walsh for effectiveness, Dygert for the freakiest break and Shocker for making most use of the spitball, would be the way I would sum up the

LACROSSE GETS BIG PLAY AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y. —La Crosse will come in for quite a bit of attention in the army athletic curriculum this season.

Eleven contests have been scheduled with some of the most prominent teams in the east. The biggest game — that with the navy — will be staged May 29. The season is due to open April 3.

The cadets hope to have an exceptionally strong team this season. It will, no doubt, be needed, too, considering the stout-looking opposition.

BADGERS FACE BUSY WEEKEND

Injury to Richard Neller, Appleton, Weakens Power of Gym Team

Madison—(P)—Undaunted by reversals suffered the past week, the hockey, wrestling, basketball and gym teams of the University of Wisconsin are prepared for formidable foes this Friday and Saturday. The Badger stars of the four sports will be seen in action together with the swimming and track teams.

Coach Joe Steinager's natators' victory over the University of Chicago, and the surprise spring by the track team in winning the quadrangular track meet at Evanston, were the bright spots in the athletic program of the state university last week.

The attractions at Wisconsin will be the appearance of the University of Chicago gym team Saturday; the invasion of the Badger rink by Michigan for two games Friday and Saturday, and the meeting of the Minnesota and Wisconsin swimming teams.

Badger wrestlers and track stars will go to Urbana, for engagements Saturday night, and Menominee's basketball players appear at LaFayette Friday night.

Appearance of Michigan hockey stars in a double bill will provide Coach Kay Iversen's boys an opportunity to regroup for the defeat administered by the Wolverines at Ann Arbor last week. Michigan won one game, and tied the other.

NELLER IS INJURED

The gym team, still pursued by misfortune evidenced by injury to three stars, suffered its first defeat of the season last week at Minnesota. Richard Neller, Appleton, was injured in a fall as he started his performance on the parallel bars, and the Badgers were deprived of his services. However, he is expected to be in shape for Chicago.

Badger wrestlers invade Illinois for the final meet of the season before the conference matches at LaFayette, Ind.

Steinager's human "fish" are confronted with the hardest match of the season in meeting Minnesota Saturday night. The Gopher's team includes five seniors whose achievements are well known. The Wisconsin team, however, is hopeful.

Coach Tom Jones has been working his track athletes into shape for the Illinois relay, but still withholds announcement of those who will participate. Charles McGinnis, high jumper, Ray Chapman, long distance runner, and Kenneth Kennedy, captain, and sprinter, are regarded as sure contenders.

JAKE IS VICTOR OVER HOPPE IN 18.1 BALKLINE

Winner Clicks Off Unofficial Records for Run and Average

Chicago—(P)—Young Jake Schaefer's ability to uphold the billiard playing traditions of the family has been further demonstrated by his defeat of Willie Hoppe at the veteran's specialty of 18.1 balkline. Already the 18.2 champion, the victory marks him as an undeniable contender.

When the two finished a 1,500 point exhibition match Wednesday Schaefer was ahead 1500 to 1115. Hoppe, for 29 years champion at the game, ruled as favorite when play began Monday. He was two billiards ahead at the end of the first 500 points. Schaefer led from then on.

Incidentally, young Jake clicked off two unofficial world records. One was a run of 212 billiards. The other was a 62.5 point average for four innings, and passed the mark set by his father years before.

He upheld Schaeferian tradition for skill at the game but departed from a time honored Schaefer precept. Lady luck smiled at Jake at a tense moment in the final game, and Jake grinned back. It was the first time he had smiled during a match for nearly a quarter century. The occasion was a lucky billiard which came just as Schaefer was finishing the match.

FEWER FIRES IN 1925 THAN IN 5 YEARS' AVERAGE

Chamber of Commerce Completes Survey for Fire Prevention Contest

The Appleton Chamber of commerce has completed its fire survey of the city for use in the fire prevention contest being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The survey included fire statistics, fire fighting equipment, fire hazards, fire prevention facilities and educational efforts for fire prevention.

Last year there were 271 fire calls. The survey reveals that for the last five years the average was 277 calls a year. There have been few serious fires. Last year there were five with losses totaling more than $1,000, and the five-year average number of fires with losses of more than that amount was 5.4. Total losses last year amounted to $27,595.03, and the average yearly loss for five years was $22,527.20.

In answer to a question put by the national chamber, the local office reported that there have been no deaths resulting from fires here within the last five years, and but five persons have been hurt during the five-year period.

SAFETY EDUCATION

Education in fire prevention is carried on by 12 of the city schools. It was found, in the 12 schools, fire drills are conducted two or three times a month the first three months of the school year. Education along this line is also carried on in Boy scout and Girl scout organizations. Seven merit badges have been awarded to boy scouts for work in this field. Besides these agencies, the chamber of commerce, the local newspapers and other agencies have been engaged in fire prevention education. Inspections for fire hazards are made regularly by the members of the fire department. Since the addition of six more men to the personnel last year, more frequent inspections have been made possible. Last year the firemen made 12,018 individual inspections. Public buildings and business property are inspected four times a year and inspections in the residential districts are made twice a year. About 15 per cent of the property owners comply with the rules for fire prevention. Besides this work the fire department also conducts a demonstration in fire prevention about once a year.

Local properties are made subject to state and local building codes. Thirty six of the 41 industrial plants have more elaborate fire prevention equipment than hand fire extinguishers, and 21 plants have sprinkler systems. Last year the city made 27 additions to its waterworks system and put in 8,488 feet of mains. It installed 18 hydrants, thus making the total number of hydrants 503. Hydrants in the business district were replaced with larger and more efficient ones. The fire department equipment consists of a steamer, a triple combination truck, a pump and hose truck, a straight hose truck, a hook and ladder truck and a chief's car. The personnel includes 28 men and the fire alarm system contains 85 alarm boxes.

Recollections Of Appletonians And Others

DR. M. J. RODERMUND

BY EDWARD P. HUMPHREY

In the "Twenty-five Years Ago" column of The Post-Crescent, under date of Monday, January 28, 1901, I find the following paragraph:

"Dr. M. J. Rodermund, who was quarantined for small pox, made good his threat to defy the laws of quarantine and escaped. His condemnation of the quarantine law had aroused nationwide interest."

This recalls the very extraordinary occurrence which was responsible for Dr. Rodermund's being placed in quarantine, viz., for the attempt to place him, until it should appear whether or not he was competent to walk abroad without sowing broadcast the seeds of a loathsome disease. How- ever, before proceeding to the narra- tion of this particular instance of Dr. Rodermund's rebellion against prescribed laws, we shall consider the public health, of which indeed it was only one of many, it will be help- ful in understanding the situation at that time, to say something in a gen- eral way about the doctor and his usually regarded preposterous beliefs, in defense of which he was ready at any time to "go to jail," though, it seems, with the mental reservation of delivering himself therefrom at the first moment that the guards were not looking.

Dr. Rodermund costumed himself in keeping with his unusual character. That is to say, he made himself up like no one else. Habitually he wore a black suit, of which the coat was cut in a voluminous and lengthy Prince Albert style, and he carried his floor- ing locks, which, however, did not reach his shoulders, with a silk stove- pipe hat. Although very vigorous in his walk back and forth between his office and his home in the conserva- tive first ward, where he was as much out of place as a duckling in a brood of chicks, he always carried an ivory- handled cane, with which he sound- fully punctuated his swinging stride.

Dr. Rodermund was a member of the Business Men's Club, and con- tributed to what might have been ex- pected of one holding, and on every possible occasion expounding, heretical theories of disease, was a general favorite in the club rooms. Like most other members at that time, he was a devotee of the game of skat, which in the humble opinion of the writer, looked at through the enchanted mist of long ago, in its requirement of nimble-wittedness and resulting en- joyment, far outclasses the more mod- ern game of auction. The doctor played a fairly good game of skat, but the mental quirk responsible for his bizarre professional beliefs, cropped out occasionally in his skat game, so that one never could tell what to ex- pect of him, and he not infrequently came in for considerable abuse from his partner on account of some ex- traordinary coup which he attempted unsuccessfully to put over. In addi- tion to this the doctor was made the butt of divers and constant jests and witticisms, directed principally at his appearance and professional doctrine, all of which, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, he bore in good part and attempted so far as possible to return in kind. However, on the one hun- dredth time, when perchance the fun had been rougher than usual, his eyes would flash, the blood would drain from his face, and he would fall silent, or perhaps pick up his high hat and ivory-handled cane and march out of the room.

Dr. Rodermund's professional her- esy, expressed in a half dozen words, was his denial of the germ theory of disease, one corollary being that there is no such thing as contagion, and consequently among other things, that vaccination is worse than useless. Not only did he dissent upon these things, but at every possible opportunity, he wrote a book about them, the manuscript of which he submitted to me for an estimate upon the cost of printing and binding. The manuscript was so disorderly and badly put to- gether that I foresaw infinite difficul- ty in publishing it, and the we did do some work for him along these lines. I managed to discourage him from giv- ing us the larger business.

Perhaps enough has now been said to make a preface for the story about to be related, of how Dr. Rodermund came to be put in quarantine for small pox. The incident was one of the most dramatic I ever saw in "real life," and it is safe to say that the dozen or twenty men who were pres- ent and affected by it got "the shock of their lives." It happened in the card room of the Business Men's Club late one afternoon, where habits of skat, at that time the city was enter- taining one of its periodic small pox epidemics, though nothing especially wide-spread or virulent, over which Dr. Rodermund had waxed especially ardent and oratorical, denouncing the idea that the disease was com- municable and condemning the action of the authorities in prescribing com- pulsory vaccination. The various club members were engaged at their games; that afternoon, when the door opened and Dr. Rodermund came in. He did it with an especially jaunty air, seem- ingly being in the highest spirits, and made the round of the room, insisting upon shaking hands lingeringly and with warmest cordiality with every person in it. Everyone noticed his unusual demeanor, but being accus- tomed to his peculiar and surprising reactions, gave it no special thought. So the doctor found a place at a table and sat in for an hour or so for his share of the afternoon's recreation. Although continually besought to "ring off," as usual, he embraced the opportunity to ridicule the idea that the disease of small pox was con- tagious, until his fellow players lost patience, and some of them went after him rough shod. So "laughing the one hundredth time came around again, and the doctor arose from his table, as pale as a ghost.

"I'll prove to you," he said with trembling lips, "that small pox isn't contagious!"

"How'll you do it?" was the cry. "Because if it is contagious you'll all have it! The last thing I did be- fore coming here was to visit So-and- So (a small pox patient), where I rub- bed my hands over his body in the smears from his broken pustules. Then I came here and shook hands with all of you—what's the answer?"

After a second or two of stunned silence, it looked for a few minutes as though the answer would be that the doctor would be thrown through the second story window to the cement sidewalk below, a proceeding suggest- ed and warmly advocated by John Schlosser. But more moderate coun- sels prevailed and the doctor finally was permitted to depart unhurt—and, as it turned out, triumphant, as none of us "took" the small pox, though the mental anguish we went through before the prescribed period of germ incubation expired, it is safe to say, was responsible for the untimely ap- pearance of many gray hairs!

Toughest of Old Hang-On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do man's work? Sweet, luscious cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traw- eling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that fig- gers on and on with the most per- sistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the real- est destroyer of tough old coughs is Bron- chuline.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking tor- ture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much swee- ter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Union Pharmacy, Voigt's Drug Store or any wideawake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a cou- ple of teaspoonfuls will usually and any ordinary cough. adv.
